FIRST MACKEREL.

The Sch. Helen Miller Gould Lands
Fare at Fortress Monroe.

SECURED 35 BARRELS LARGE FISH.

Much Desired Fish Were Sent Direct to New York.

The first mackerel fare of the new century has been landed, and Capt. Solomon Jacobs has carried off the much-coveted honor.

A telegram to the TIMES, announcing the arrival of sch. Helen Miller Gould of this port at Fortress Monroe, Virginia, Monday, with 35 barrels of large fresh mackerel, was received shortly after going to press on the second edition.

The fish were shipped to New York and consigned to Chessboro Bros., Fulton Market.

Last year the first mackerel fare of the season was landed April 17 at Delaware Breakwater by sch. Ida L. Miller of New York, Capt. John McKinnon of this port. The first fares in 1899 were landed April 28 at Delaware Breakwater by sch. Storm King, Capt. Daniel A. Cogill of this port, and sch. Ida L. Miller, Capt. John McKinnon, both arriving there about the same time.

The first fare of 1898 was landed at New York March 29 by sch. Ethel B. Jacobs, Capt. Solomon Jacobs, which was the earliest fare since 1871, when Capt. Jacobs in sch. Edward E. Webster landed 140 barrels at New York March 23, and sch. Nellie N. Rowe, Capt. Eben T. Lewis, landed 4000 mackerel the next day.

Capt. Jacobs is well known as the leader of the mackerel fleet. Last year he was high line. He has many times carried off the high line honor, as well as the coveted honor of being first arrival out south. His ability is too well known to need any eulogiums and his many friends wish him a continuance of his last year's success.

DANDY FARE.

Sch. Anglo Saxon Has 85,000
Pounds Fresh Halibut.

Took Thirty-two Dory Loads in One Day.

Sch. Anglo Saxon, Capt. Robert Porper, arrived here Monday evening from the Cape St. George, N. F., grounds with the banner fresh halibut fare of the season, 85,000 pounds.

This great fare was nearly all secured the first part of last week, big fishing being struck, and 32 dory loads being taken in one day.

This is the largest fare of fresh halibut landed at this port since the big fares from Bacalieu bank last summer, and Capt. Porper and his crew are to be congratulated on their good fortune. Capt. Porper is always noted for his big fares, but now he has come along with an extra fine trip when nobody was expecting it and when the run of trips has averaged not too large.

Capt. Porper reports no other vessels in the vicinity. He also reports it very thick off here Monday. Eastern Point light was the first thing sighted and the vessel came in by the lead.

Western Halibut.

Within a week five cars of Pacific halibut have arrived at New York and Boston and three are due. A steamer with a fare has also arrived at Vancouver.

FIRST AT NEW YORK.

Sch. Madonna Has a Fine Fresh Mackerel Fare.

ARRIVED THERE THIS FORENOON.

Brought One Hundred Fifteen Barrels Medium Fish.

A special dispatch to the TIMES this forenoon brings the welcome news of the first arrival at New York this season of a mackerel catcher with a fare of fish.

The lucky craft is the sch. Madonna of this port and her skipper, Capt. Rufus McKay, who captures the much coveted honor of landing the first mackerel fare of the season at New York.

The Madonna has a fine fare, 115 barrels of medium fish and will receive a big price for them, which means a good stock for Capt. McKay to start the season with.

Capt. McKay is one of the younger class of master mariners and has made himself an enviable reputation both as a hand and skipper. He has always been noted for his remarkable ability to see schools of mackerel, when they were almost invisible to others and last season made a fine record in the sch. Madonna.

Capt. McKay's many friends, will be pleased to learn of his good fortune and wish him a continuance.

This arrival of the Monarch is eight days earlier than the first arrival at New York last year, when Capt. Charles H. Harty in sch. Marguerite Haskins carried off the honor by getting in April 19 with 50 barrels of fresh mackerel.

Last year the first mackerel fare of the season was landed April 17 at Delaware Breakwater by sch. Ida L. Miller of New York, Capt. John McKinnon of this port. The first fares in 1899 were landed April 28 at Delaware Breakwater by sch. Storm King, Capt. Daniel A. Cogill of this port, and sch. Ida L. Miller, Capt. John McKinnon, both arriving there about the same time.

The first fare of 1898 was landed at New York March 29 by sch. Ethel B. Jacobs, Capt. Solomon Jacobs, which was the earliest fare since 1871, when Capt. Jacobs in sch. Edward E. Webster landed 140 barrels at New York March 23, and sch. Nellie N. Rowe, Capt. Eben T. Lewis, landed 4000 mackerel the next day.

BIG FISHING CRAFT.

D. B. Smith & Co. Having Another One Built.

Will Be Largest Fishing Vessel From This Port.

A. D. Story has the keel set up for a new vessel for D. B. Smith & Co. The craft will be launched in July and will be the largest fishing vessel hailing from this port. She will be off the model of the sch. J. J. Flaherty, at present the largest fishing craft hailing from here. In some ways the lines of the new craft will differ from the Flaherty but will be generally the same.

She is designed to combine speed with capacity and will be rigged and fitted to engage in the Grand Bank handline fishery and will fit away as soon as possible after she is launched.

It was reported that the craft would be entered in the coming fishermen's race, but Mr. Benj. A. Smith of the firm of D. B. Smith & Co., the owners, stated this morning that this was not at all their intention. She would not be spared for sailing but rigged especially for long salt trips. As soon as launched in July she would be fitted for a handline dory trip and would probably not be home until November. If by something unforeseen, these plans should be changed and if the vessel should happen to be fishing near home and had shown herself a fast sailer there was a possibility that she might enter the race, but she would not be built with that idea in mind.
